A little word about me and what I do:

I currently have a small practice as a career counsellor, serve as Associate Dean for the Masters of Arts in Counselling Psychology (MACP) program at Yorkville University, and am President of Life Strategies Ltd., a consulting, research, and training organization based in BC. I have the privilege of travelling extensively (to more than 70 countries and every continent) and, through that, have developed a strong interest in global and international careers and cultural competency. Following the adage that “we teach what we need to learn,” I also speak and write extensively about topics related to work-life balance and sustainability!

What does CCPA mean to me?

Although I am a member of many professional associations, CCPA is my Canadian home. I appreciate the national connections, the specialist chapters (I’m a member of 5 of them!), the professional development opportunities, and the opportunity to serve on chapter executives, facilitate webinars, and contribute to various CCPA publications.

My previous involvement with CCPA:

I’ve served as President of the BC Chapter, and on the executive of the Private Practitioners Chapter and the Career Counsellors Chapter. I’ve also written and reviewed articles for the Canadian Journal of Counselling and Psychotherapy and contributed a chapter to the Ethics Casebook. Over the past few years, I’ve facilitated many webinars for the Private Practitioners chapter and presented at many CCPA conferences.

Favorite author or musical artist:

I enjoy folk music, particularly songs that tell a story but also music indigenous to various countries that I've visited, regardless of the language.
