A little word about me and what I do:

Doc Warren (as he is known) has been in the Human Service field since 1990 (while still in high school). He has worked and or interned in the following clinical settings: Inpatient, Partial Hospital, Intensive Inpatient, Locked Wards, Intensive Outpatient, Home Based, Outreach, Substance Abuse, Criminal Justice, Half Way and Transitional Living Centers. He has worked with all ages on an individual, group and family basis.

Doc utilizes a behavioral approach to therapy based on the work of Dr. Albert Ellis' Rational Emotive Behavior Therapy and others, blended with his unique conversational style. He also strives to use the latest and most effective techniques based on current best practices.

Doc has many specialties and though he works with everyone he is often called upon to handle the most complex situations.

Though he works with all populations, Doc is well known to special needs communities and is a proud ally to the LGBTQ community, Veterans, and other populations that often find themselves in need of service with few available clinicians that can help.

Doc is the founder of Community Counseling Centers of Central CT. Inc and Pillwillop Therapeutic Farm and serves as Clinical and Executive Director of both programs. He also writes a monthly column titled Nonprofit News, for Counseling Today Online- the magazine of the American Counseling Association (ACA). He also writes a blog for the ACA as well.

What does CCPA mean to me?

I was honored to have presented at the joint conference with the American Counseling Association in 2016. CCPA made me feel welcome and part of the community. When communicating with staff via email or phone, they had a feel like we were all part of the same family. I knew I needed to become a member and play a bigger role. I hope to be able to give them as much as they give to every member.

My previous involvement with CCPA:

As a US citizen I have had limited involvement prior to the conference. Since then I have had the privilege of working with them to get certified in Canada and to learn more about programing, all of which has been positive.

Favorite author or musical artist:

My musical tastes are broad depending on my mood and activity. You may find me listening to Nirvana, Darius Rucker, Gun N Roses or the music from a Broadway show (Phantom of the Opera is my favorite). My go to victory song is Jimi Hendrix' Voodoo Child
