Why Hire a Canadian Certified Counsellor (C.C.C.)?

Employers seek the most qualified and credible professionals to work for them. And why not? You want the best for your company and for the people you serve. The C.C.C. designation offers employers a quick identifier of quality assurance. Our members adhere to established, professional and legally credible standards through CCPA's:

- Code of Ethics
- Standard of Practice
- Disciplinary Procedure

Our members continuously update their skills to maintain certification. The Canadian Certified Counsellor (C.C.C.) certification process is available only to highly qualified Professional members. Certification identifies to employers, the public and professional peers those counsellors who have met a specific professional standard of competence in counselling and psychotherapy.

Only counsellors and psychotherapists who are certified by CCPA are permitted to use the protected title Canadian Certified Counsellor and/or the acronym 'C.C.C.'.

CCPA Job Posting Service

Organizations and employers can now communicate with the National Office to advertise employment opportunities for counsellors and psychotherapists. This service is free of charge and is offered only to members.
